

Work division

The number of working hours that has been necessary to complete this project has been equally split between the three members of the group. All aspects related to the project such as curating the dataset or designing visualizations and finally writing the final project report was taken care off by all members. However, the screencast was made by Andrea. Everyone was always well informed about the work of the others and given feedback about their own, and we then mostly worked on everything together by meeting very often as a group.
